Increase Productivity With Dual Monitors

Many businesses have begun using a dual-monitor setup for their employees to increase productivity. By using two monitors the available desktop screen area is essentially doubled, which creates several benefits. Situations in which employees need to compare spreadsheets, documents, images and emails, are easy when placing each document on a separate monitor. With a dual-monitor setup you are able to have two projects on the desktop at once, such as displaying your email on one monitor and a browser window on the other. The ability to move your cursor from screen to screen is a benefit on its own. No more minimizing and maximizing windows just to find the application you need.
